

For One Day Only.

ON

SATURDAY, JAN. 6TH,

200 PAIRS

Stacy Adams & Co's

SAMPLES

Men's Fine Shoes

In Blacks and Tans, all shapes and styles. Sizes 6, 6 1/2, and 7, on A. B. and C widths.

Worth $5.00 & $6.00

FOR

$3.50.

J. H. ANDERSON & CO.

All Kinds of Hats.

FOR

All Kinds of Heads.

We are offering some

Exceptional Values in Hats.

This line as well as all others has advanced in price, but we bought this stock very cheap and are selling hats at less than we could buy them for to-day.

For The Cash.

Burnett & Quarles.

Successors to

PETREE & COMPANY.

Sign of the Big Boot.

ORGANIZED.

Legislature Ready For Business With Good Men on Deck.

South Trimble Elected Speaker In the House—Other Officers.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 2.—The General Assembly was organized to-day by the Democrats, every nominee of last night's caucus being elected in the Senate and House by the party vote.

In the organization of the Senate, Messrs. Hays, Alexander, Gillespie and Roberts, who remained out of the Senate caucus, voted for the Democratic nominees, except that Senator Roberts did not vote for Senator Goebel for President pro tem.

The Senators were called to order at 12 o'clock by Acting Lieut. Gov. John Marshall, of Louisville. There was prayer by the Rev. P. F. Taliaferro, of the Methodist church. The roll call showed the presence of thirty-six senators, but Senator Roberts came in later. Eighteen new senators were sworn in by Clerk Cromwell.

President Marshall called for nominations for the Senate offices, and by a vote of 25 to 12 the Democratic nominees were elected: Senators Alexander, Gillespie and Hays, who stayed out of the Democratic caucus last night, voted with the Democrats for every nominee.

By the vote of 25 to 12 the following officers were elected: Chief Clerk—Claude Desha, of Harrison county.

Assistant Clerk—William Cromwell, of Franklin.

Enrolling Clerk—Mrs. Caswell Bennett, of Lyon county.

Sergeant-at-Arms—Ben Hensley, of Pendleton.

Doorkeeper—J. F. Richardson, of Daviess.

Janitor—Tom McLaughlin, of Fayette.

Clock-room Keeper—J. R. Catlett, of Caldwell.

Pages—Garth Ferguson, of McCracken; George Norris, of Garrard; Goleman Malloy, of Lyon.

President pro tem.—William Goebel, of Kenton.

The House was organized by the Democrats.

Nominations for Speaker being in order, Mr. G. W. Hickman, of McLean county, presented the name of Mr. South Trimble, of Franklin county, Mr. R. W. Slack, of Owensboro, presented the name of Mr. W. P. Haaswell, of Breckinridge county. For speeches were made and the vote was taken, resulting in 57 for Trimble and 40 for Haaswell.

All the Democratic caucus nominations went through by a party vote. For Chief Clerk, Mr. Ed. O. Leigh, of Paducah, defeated Mr. C. F. Ogden, of Louisville.

For Assistant Clerk, Mr. Henry Williams, of Bowling Green, defeated Mr. Thomas Finley, of Hopkins county.

For Enrolling Clerk, Miss Margaret Ingels, of Bourbon county, defeated Mr. A. S. Bennett, of Ohio county.

For Sergeant-at-Arms, Mr. Percy Haly, of Frankfort, defeated Mr. G. P. Thomas, of Trigg county.

For Doorkeeper, William Lyons, of Jessamine county, defeated James Stubblefield, of Clay county.

For Janitor, W. H. Snodgrass, of Mercer county, defeated Sandra Fish, of Rockcastle county.

For Clock-room Keeper, George Kendrick, of Campbell county, defeated Thomas C. Whitney, of Christian county.

For Assistant Clock-room Keeper, Harris Alexander, defeated Gibb McNutt, of Grayson county.

For Pages, Charles Parrish, of Clark; Chester Stacy, of Knott; Elmer Wilson, of Union, and William Peak, of Trimble.

JOHN H. WITTY.

After a Lingering Illness, Called to World Beyond.

Mr. John H. Witty, who with his family moved to this city from Hopkinsville some two or three months since and went to housekeeping at 607 Lower Elm street, died yesterday. Mr. Witty has been an invalid for some years past and his death was by no means unexpected. He was born and raised in Christian county, and a few days past reached his 66th year of age. A wife and five children, three of whom Edward S., Wm. B., and Grace, reside in Henderson, survive him. The funeral will take place from the family residence this afternoon at 3 o'clock.—Sunday's Gleaner.

BASE INGRATITUDE

To the Brownie "Kukluxers" Louisville Republican Organ Attacks Its Late Allies.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 3.—The Republican leaders are up in arms over an editorial which appeared in their official organ, the Louisville Commercial, this morning under the heading, "Kentucky Scandalized by its Kuklux Democracy." The article attacks the Brown bolters as well as the regular Democrats. Judge W. H. Sneed, a local Republican, is circulating a petition, gotten up, he says, by ex-Gov. Bradley, repudiating the attack on the bolters. "The Commercial," said Judge Sneed, "does not represent the Republican party in Kentucky, and is less in sympathy with it now than ever before."

TWO LADY TEACHERS.

Honored by The State Educational Association.

At the Kentucky Educational Association meeting in Louisville last week, Christian County had half a dozen or more teachers present.

Two of the Hopkinsville teachers were honored with places in the list of officers elected.

Miss Katie McDaniel was elected First Vice President of the Association and Miss Alice Lander Secretary of the High School Department.

JOE'S ALL RIGHT.

Now Let Goebel Be Given His Seat As Governor.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 3.—The Republicans have not decided when they will hold their senatorial caucus, but it is now certain that a Republican will be nominated in view of the failure of the anti-Goebel leaders to hold any considerable number of Democrats out of the Blackburn caucus.

Senator McConnell, Populist, who did not participate with the Democrats last night, will vote for Blackburn, and with his vote, Blackburn, according to the showing of tonight's caucus, will have 82 votes as against 64 Republican or 56 Republicans and anti-Blackburn Democrats combined. The election will occur Jan. 16.

LEAVELL'S RECORD.

Two Years' Work In The City Judge's Office.

City Judge Buckner Leavell has made a record in two years, of which he may justly feel proud. The following statement shows the figures:

| | |
|---|------------|
| Total amount of fines imposed for two years ending Dec. 31..... | $2,769.77 |
| Cash collected on fines..... | 2,935.79 |
| Worked out in the workhouse..... | 5,422.33 |
| Fines remitted..... | 1,458.25 |
| Paid city judge's cost..... | 529.70 |
| Outstanding fines..... | 2,423.70 |
| Number of persons sent to the workhouse..... | 326 |

The city is fortunate in having Judge Leavell secure in his office for at least two more years.

YESTERDAY THE DAY

For Drawing Contest Committees In The Legislature.

Goebel And Beckham Filed Notice Tuesday on Taylor And Marshall.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 4.—The Sheriff of Franklin county Tuesday afternoon served notices of contest by Goebel and Beckham upon Taylor and Marshall. At the session Wednesday similar notices were filed in the Senate and House, and today the Contest Committees will be drawn. This Committee will be empowered under the law to bring before it persons and papers, and it will take several weeks to secure the evidence and make a report.

Senator Goebel's notice differs from those served by the minor State candidates, and some of the grounds of contest are much more sensational. It is charged that the Republican party and certain trusts and corporations entered into a conspiracy to use large sums of money for the purpose of controlling the result of the election. The contestants believe they can prove this.

John Whallen, of Louisville, is mentioned as one of the conspirators. The notice also contains the charge that tissue ballots were used in many counties, and that the railroads brought into this State thousands of voters. One of the chief grounds of contest is the use of the militia in Louisville, while the intimidation of railroad employees is given as another ground. The Democrats claim that they will be able to prove this charge, as well as the others.

THREE ELECTED

But a Deadlock In The Fourth Place Still On.

There is a deadlock in the election of the remaining member of a board of four Tobacco Inspectors, to serve the Clarksville market, an office worth $4,000 a year. Monday A. F. Smith and W. F. Buckner were re-elected. Today the third member was elected, T. L. Porter, of Elkton, Ky., who several years ago served as a member of the board. Up to tonight's adjournment there has been altogether 124 ballots taken. There were thirteen candidates, and the election of a dark horse may break the deadlock.

MYSTERY SOLVED.

Body of Tom Collins Found Immersed in Quicksand.

Thomas Collins, a young farmer living in Rockcastle, Trigg county, mysteriously disappeared from his home December 26 and no trace could be found as to his whereabouts until Wednesday, when he was found dead on the banks of a creek, standing up to his knees in quicksand. The fall of the water disclosed his body, the water being very high when he sank.

TWO MEN KILLED.

Double Tragedy Stirs up The Town of Adairville.

Adairville, Ky., Jan. 3.—In an altercation which occurred in Dr. Gay's office this morning, Dr. M. T. Gay shot and killed Ed. O. Griffey, then turned and shot himself through the heart. Both died instantly.

They were prominent in social and commercial circles here. The community is greatly shocked over the double tragedy.

Is Now Capt. Butt.

Mr. A. W. Butt, the Washington correspondent of several Southern newspapers, and a former resident of Louisville, has been appointed Captain and Assistant Quartermaster in the United States volunteer army. Capt. Butt will be assigned to duty in the Philippines.

ARE FIREBUGS ABOUT?

Another Stable Burned In a Mysterious Way.

The new fire company had its first experience shortly after noon Wednesday. Mrs. Mattie Lowry's stable at 927 South Main Street was burned and the Bethel College stable and Jno. T. Edmunds' stable close by were saved just in time.

Only a few of the firemen were experienced men, Chief Atkinson and Firemen Roper, Western and Teamster Morris, the three members of the old force re-elected, had to do most of the work and after considerable delay and several unavoidable hitches water was turned on.

The college stable was already on fire, but this was soon put out. The Lowry stable was totally destroyed. The Edmunds stable was saved from catching, though it was badly scorched. Mrs. Lowry carried $75 insurance, which will not cover the loss.

It is believed that the stable was fired by a negro boy, who was seen running out the back street just before the alarm was turned in. There was no fire anywhere near the stable.

BASS SHOE CO.

New Corporation Succeeds The Hopkinsville Mercantile Co.

The Hopkinsville Mercantile Company has been changed into the Bass Shoe Co., the articles of incorporation being filed a few days ago.

Mr. A. S. Cox and Mr. J. W. Warfield become interested in the new corporation and Mr. T. E. Johnson retires. Mr. Johnson will devote his entire time to the jobbing business, which has grown to an extent that keeps him on the road most of the time. Messrs. Cox and Warfield will be the active managers of the new company, with Mr. O. L. Bass as the President. The company is preparing to widen out its business and enter the new year with fine prospects.

GONE TO FLORIDA.

Julien Fishing and Hunting Club Take an Outing.

The Julien Fishing and Hunting Club left this city yesterday for Punta Gorda, Florida, where they will camp for about a month.

Following a list of those who made up the party: G. H. Stowe, Dr. H. P. Sights, Monroe Dalton, E. A. Stowe, John W. Twyman, W. D. Stowe, Thos. W. Long, and H. M. Dalton, all of this city and county, and John Street and Horace Rutherford, of Elkton. They will be joined at Jacksonville, Fla., by L. H. Petree, of this city.

FELL IN A FAINT.

Visiting Lady Found Unconscious at B. F. College.

Mrs. Grimshaw, mother of Miss Grimshaw, Music Teacher at Bethel Female College, arrived in the city some days ago on a visit to her daughter.

Yesterday morning she was found in her daughter's room, lying on the hearth in an unconscious condition, having fallen in a fainting spell. A physician was summoned and after some hours the lady was restored to consciousness. She was better last evening, but still very ill.

TOM BRYAN DEAD.

Young Man Who Was Born and Bred Here.

Mr. Thos. Bryan, son of Mr. Thos. S. Bryan, of this city, died in St. Louis a few days ago. Mr. M. Bryan went to St. Louis to attend the funeral and burial in that city. He was raised in this city but had lived in St. Louis for some years. He left no family.

LETTER OF REFUSAL

"May I come in?"

The curtain from behind which the man, as usual, had been waiting, opened, and a young man stepped forward.

"The man at the door pointed away indifferently, putting in a sunset sky with strong, even strokes.

"When our forefathers signed the declaration of independence 130 years ago," he began.

"I was—"

A face made its appearance at the parting of the curtains, a face framed in dark, wavy hair, with bright, shining eyes, made soft by long curling lashes, and a red, red mouth, just now dropping pitifully at the corners.

"They made all men free and equal," proceeded the man, "and some looking up, and some down at a lot of ladies with abbreviated hair and petticoats have been struggling to make their sex also independent—and with considerable success."

"Don't be horrid," pleaded the red mouth, accented by the shining eyes.

"Therefore, I was about to say," he went on, calmly, "I don't see how I can hope to prevent you from coming in, if you choose to do so."

She stepped inside, but did not advance into the room.

"I know you're going to be horrid," she said, plaintively.

He laid down his brush, and, turning at last, surveyed her deliberately as she stood, her slender shape outlined against the curtains.

They were burlap curtains, which she had painted a dull brick red ("Pompeian red," she called it), and which she had ornamented with a Greek border in yellow floss and hung in the doorway herself, in spite of his scoffing and ribald protests.

They were pretty bad, those curtains, but whatever their limitations from an artistic point of view, they certainly made an effective background for the white-robed figure, and his eyes lingered approvingly on the picture a moment before he said, severely:

"What have you been doing?"

"Why, the idea," she exclaimed, indignantly drawing her figure up to its full height and flashing a protesting glance at him from under her long lashes.

"Notice that you generally take it for granted I'm going to be horrid when you've been particularly horrid to yourself," he observed, blandly.

But he did not reply to this daring remark, but, crossing the room to the mantle, carefully selected an especially ugly burlap pipe from the collection it contained.

This he filled, with practiced fingers, from a battered tobacco jar that stood near, and then, crossing to the easel, offered it to the man with a most bewitching little air of coaxing humility.

"My dear young woman," he cried, "reading the offering away sternly, 'do I look like a man who would accept a bribe?'"

For a moment there was silence, then John suddenly pushed back his easel and pulled a writing table toward him.

"Well, if you can't come to-morrow, I suppose I'll have to help you write your letter to-day," he said, but there was an unusual sound in his voice, and Jean looked up hastily through her tears.

John's face was grimly set, however, and told her nothing.

"Let me see—it was Hinsdale, I think you said"—he went on, still with that grating sound in his voice.

"Yes," she said, miserably, again having recourse to the crumpled sash. "And I think we told him, in our last, that we'd be a sister to him," he proceeded, nibbling the end of his pen.

"Something of that sort." And she flushed warmly, clear up to the curly waves of dark hair on her temples.

"Evidently the sister racket won't go down with Hinsdale," he said, reflectively. "You might offer to be his maiden aunt, you know."

"There! I knew you'd be horrid!" she exclaimed, indignantly.

"It's a delicate job," he went on, reflectively. "Are you quite sure you mean to refuse him this time?"

"Of course I am!" she burst out indignantly. "You don't suppose I could care for a boy like him, do you?"

"The silence in the room could have been cut with a knife when John concluded his reading and laid the epistle back on the table.

John stood rigid, gazing with a fixed and haughty stare at some point on the wall above John's head, when he turned and confronted her with a little embarrassment as he would have shown in facing a new pupil.

"Well, what do you think of it?" he asked, coolly.

"It was a nice copy," he said, "but I think it was a bit too long."

"Ah, did you write it like that?" he asked, pulling a big, round, dark object over his sunset and watching the effect of his rapid measuring through the clouds of grayish vapor with an artist's delighted appreciation of color.

"Oh, well—the letter you wrote, then, she said. "Though I'm sure you didn't do it all; you only helped me."

"Oh, yes," he answered, indolently. "But Hinsdale—he's broken out again!"

"Yes, worse than ever," and she sighed dramatically, "and I want you to help me write him another letter—one that will fix it so he'll understand there's no hope—no possibility—I mean—of my ever being anything more to him—here she flourished and broke quite down."

"Can't do it to-day," he said, dolefully. "I've got to get this picture done to-morrow—order, you know—and it'll be a scratch if I manage to do it. It means painting all night as it is."

"Oh, John, you must!" she cried, eagerly. "I've just got to send it to him this afternoon by a messenger boy or he'll be sure to come up to-night and make a scene or something, besides."

"No, it's no good," he said, cruelly, taking up his brush. "You'll have to get rid of him somehow and come to-morrow."

"But, oh, John!" she burst out, tears coming to her eyes. "I—I can't come to-morrow—Annt Maria has issued her commands—the flat has gone forth—I'm forbidden to come here any more."

"The deuce you are!" And he laid down his brush and faced quite around in his astonishment.

"Yes," she replied, furtively drying a tear on one of the ends of the muslin sash. (Jean never could find her handkerchief, being always with out pockets.) "She says it's all well enough for me to take painting lessons, you thought everybody knows I never could learn to paint. Annt Maria is so ignorant about such things, you know."

"Yes, I know." Blowing a ring of smoke ceilingward to hide a little smile.

"And she doesn't mind my having a studio, if I'll fix up at home, but she doesn't think it looks well for me to have one in this building and run in and out of here all the time—and so I've got to move to-morrow."

This time she forgot to dry the tear, and it ran forlornly down her cheek and fell with a splash on a study of the head of John the Baptist that lay on the floor.

For a moment there was silence, then John suddenly pushed back his easel and pulled a writing table toward him.

"Well, if you can't come to-morrow, I suppose I'll have to help you write your letter to-day," he said, but there was an unusual sound in his voice, and Jean looked up hastily through her tears.

John's face was grimly set, however, and told her nothing.

"Let me see—it was Hinsdale, I think you said"—he went on, still with that grating sound in his voice.

"Yes," she said, miserably, again having recourse to the crumpled sash. "And I think we told him, in our last, that we'd be a sister to him," he proceeded, nibbling the end of his pen.

"Something of that sort." And she flushed warmly, clear up to the curly waves of dark hair on her temples.

"Evidently the sister racket won't go down with Hinsdale," he said, reflectively. "You might offer to be his maiden aunt, you know."

"There! I knew you'd be horrid!" she exclaimed, indignantly.

"It's a delicate job," he went on, reflectively. "Are you quite sure you mean to refuse him this time?"

"Of course I am!" she burst out indignantly. "You don't suppose I could care for a boy like him, do you?"

"The silence in the room could have been cut with a knife when John concluded his reading and laid the epistle back on the table.

John stood rigid, gazing with a fixed and haughty stare at some point on the wall above John's head, when he turned and confronted her with a little embarrassment as he would have shown in facing a new pupil.

"Well, what do you think of it?" he asked, coolly.

"It was a nice copy," he said, "but I think it was a bit too long."

"Ah, did you write it like that?" he asked, pulling a big, round, dark object over his sunset and watching the effect of his rapid measuring through the clouds of grayish vapor with an artist's delighted appreciation of color.

"Oh, well—the letter you wrote, then, she said. "Though I'm sure you didn't do it all; you only helped me."

"Oh, yes," he answered, indolently. "But Hinsdale—he's broken out again!"

"Yes, worse than ever," and she sighed dramatically, "and I want you to help me write him another letter—one that will fix it so he'll understand there's no hope—no possibility—I mean—of my ever being anything more to him—here she flourished and broke quite down."

"Can't do it to-day," he said, dolefully. "I've got to get this picture done to-morrow—order, you know—and it'll be a scratch if I manage to do it. It means painting all night as it is."

"Oh, John, you must!" she cried, eagerly. "I've just got to send it to him this afternoon by a messenger boy or he'll be sure to come up to-night and make a scene or something, besides."

"No, it's no good," he said, cruelly, taking up his brush. "You'll have to get rid of him somehow and come to-morrow."

"But, oh, John!" she burst out, tears coming to her eyes. "I—I can't come to-morrow—Annt Maria has issued her commands—the flat has gone forth—I'm forbidden to come here any more."

"The deuce you are!" And he laid down his brush and faced quite around in his astonishment.

"Yes," she replied, furtively drying a tear on one of the ends of the muslin sash. (Jean never could find her handkerchief, being always with out pockets.) "She says it's all well enough for me to take painting lessons, you thought everybody knows I never could learn to paint. Annt Maria is so ignorant about such things, you know."

"Yes, I know." Blowing a ring of smoke ceilingward to hide a little smile.

"And she doesn't mind my having a studio, if I'll fix up at home, but she doesn't think it looks well for me to have one in this building and run in and out of here all the time—and so I've got to move to-morrow."

This time she forgot to dry the tear, and it ran forlornly down her cheek and fell with a splash on a study of the head of John the Baptist that lay on the floor.

For a moment there was silence, then John suddenly pushed back his easel and pulled a writing table toward him.

"Well, if you can't come to-morrow, I suppose I'll have to help you write your letter to-day," he said, but there was an unusual sound in his voice, and Jean looked up hastily through her tears.

John's face was grimly set, however, and told her nothing.

"Let me see—it was Hinsdale, I think you said"—he went on, still with that grating sound in his voice.

"Yes," she said, miserably, again having recourse to the crumpled sash. "And I think we told him, in our last, that we'd be a sister to him," he proceeded, nibbling the end of his pen.

"Something of that sort." And she flushed warmly, clear up to the curly waves of dark hair on her temples.

"Evidently the sister racket won't go down with Hinsdale," he said, reflectively. "You might offer to be his maiden aunt, you know."

"There! I knew you'd be horrid!" she exclaimed, indignantly.

"It's a delicate job," he went on, reflectively. "Are you quite sure you mean to refuse him this time?"

"Of course I am!" she burst out indignantly. "You don't suppose I could care for a boy like him, do you?"

"The silence in the room could have been cut with a knife when John concluded his reading and laid the epistle back on the table.

John stood rigid, gazing with a fixed and haughty stare at some point on the wall above John's head, when he turned and confronted her with a little embarrassment as he would have shown in facing a new pupil.

"Well, what do you think of it?" he asked, coolly.

"It was a nice copy," he said, "but I think it was a bit too long."

"Ah, did you write it like that?" he asked, pulling a big, round, dark object over his sunset and watching the effect of his rapid measuring through the clouds of grayish vapor with an artist's delighted appreciation of color.

"Oh, well—the letter you wrote, then, she said. "Though I'm sure you didn't do it all; you only helped me."

"Oh, yes," he answered, indolently. "But Hinsdale—he's broken out again!"

"Yes, worse than ever," and she sighed dramatically, "and I want you to help me write him another letter—one that will fix it so he'll understand there's no hope—no possibility—I mean—of my ever being anything more to him—here she flourished and broke quite down."

"Can't do it to-day," he said, dolefully. "I've got to get this picture done to-morrow—order, you know—and it'll be a scratch if I manage to do it. It means painting all night as it is."

"Oh, John, you must!" she cried, eagerly. "I've just got to send it to him this afternoon by a messenger boy or he'll be sure to come up to-night and make a scene or something, besides."

"No, it's no good," he said, cruelly, taking up his brush. "You'll have to get rid of him somehow and come to-morrow."

"But, oh, John!" she burst out, tears coming to her eyes. "I—I can't come to-morrow—Annt Maria has issued her commands—the flat has gone forth—I'm forbidden to come here any more."

"The deuce you are!" And he laid down his brush and faced quite around in his astonishment.

"Yes," she replied, furtively drying a tear on one of the ends of the muslin sash. (Jean never could find her handkerchief, being always with out pockets.) "She says it's all well enough for me to take painting lessons, you thought everybody knows I never could learn to paint. Annt Maria is so ignorant about such things, you know."

"Yes, I know." Blowing a ring of smoke ceilingward to hide a little smile.

"And she doesn't mind my having a studio, if I'll fix up at home, but she doesn't think it looks well for me to have one in this building and run in and out of here all the time—and so I've got to move to-morrow."

This time she forgot to dry the tear, and it ran forlornly down her cheek and fell with a splash on a study of the head of John the Baptist that lay on the floor.

For a moment there was silence, then John suddenly pushed back his easel and pulled a writing table toward him.

"Well, if you can't come to-morrow, I suppose I'll have to help you write your letter to-day," he said, but there was an unusual sound in his voice, and Jean looked up hastily through her tears.

John's face was grimly set, however, and told her nothing.

"Let me see—it was Hinsdale, I think you said"—he went on, still with that grating sound in his voice.

"Yes," she said, miserably, again having recourse to the crumpled sash. "And I think we told him, in our last, that we'd be a sister to him," he proceeded, nibbling the end of his pen.

"Something of that sort." And she flushed warmly, clear up to the curly waves of dark hair on her temples.

"Evidently the sister racket won't go down with Hinsdale," he said, reflectively. "You might offer to be his maiden aunt, you know."

"There! I knew you'd be horrid!" she exclaimed, indignantly.

"It's a delicate job," he went on, reflectively. "Are you quite sure you mean to refuse him this time?"

"Of course I am!" she burst out indignantly. "You don't suppose I could care for a boy like him, do you?"

"The silence in the room could have been cut with a knife when John concluded his reading and laid the epistle back on the table.

John stood rigid, gazing with a fixed and haughty stare at some point on the wall above John's head, when he turned and confronted her with a little embarrassment as he would have shown in facing a new pupil.

"Well, what do you think of it?" he asked, coolly.

"It was a nice copy," he said, "but I think it was a bit too long."

"Ah, did you write it like that?" he asked, pulling a big, round, dark object over his sunset and watching the effect of his rapid measuring through the clouds of grayish vapor with an artist's delighted appreciation of color.

"Oh, well—the letter you wrote, then, she said. "Though I'm sure you didn't do it all; you only helped me."

"Oh, yes," he answered, indolently. "But Hinsdale—he's broken out again!"

"Yes, worse than ever," and she sighed dramatically, "and I want you to help me write him another letter—one that will fix it so he'll understand there's no hope—no possibility—I mean—of my ever being anything more to him—here she flourished and broke quite down."

"Can't do it to-day," he said, dolefully. "I've got to get this picture done to-morrow—order, you know—and it'll be a scratch if I manage to do it. It means painting all night as it is."

"Oh, John, you must!" she cried, eagerly. "I've just got to send it to him this afternoon by a messenger boy or he'll be sure to come up to-night and make a scene or something, besides."

"No, it's no good," he said, cruelly, taking up his brush. "You'll have to get rid of him somehow and come to-morrow."

"But, oh, John!" she burst out, tears coming to her eyes. "I—I can't come to-morrow—Annt Maria has issued her commands—the flat has gone forth—I'm forbidden to come here any more."

"The deuce you are!" And he laid down his brush and faced quite around in his astonishment.

"Yes," she replied, furtively drying a tear on one of the ends of the muslin sash. (Jean never could find her handkerchief, being always with out pockets.) "She says it's all well enough for me to take painting lessons, you thought everybody knows I never could learn to paint. Annt Maria is so ignorant about such things, you know."

"Yes, I know." Blowing a ring of smoke ceilingward to hide a little smile.

"And she doesn't mind my having a studio, if I'll fix up at home, but she doesn't think it looks well for me to have one in this building and run in and out of here all the time—and so I've got to move to-morrow."

This time she forgot to dry the tear, and it ran forlornly down her cheek and fell with a splash on a study of the head of John the Baptist that lay on the floor.

For a moment there was silence, then John suddenly pushed back his easel and pulled a writing table toward him.

"Well, if you can't come to-morrow, I suppose I'll have to help you write your letter to-day," he said, but there was an unusual sound in his voice, and Jean looked up hastily through her tears.

John's face was grimly set, however, and told her nothing.

"Let me see—it was Hinsdale, I think you said"—he went on, still with that grating sound in his voice.

"Yes," she said, miserably, again having recourse to the crumpled sash. "And I think we told him, in our last, that we'd be a sister to him," he proceeded, nibbling the end of his pen.

"Something of that sort." And she flushed warmly, clear up to the curly waves of dark hair on her temples.

"Evidently the sister racket won't go down with Hinsdale," he said, reflectively. "You might offer to be his maiden aunt, you know."

"There! I knew you'd be horrid!" she exclaimed, indignantly.

"It's a delicate job," he went on, reflectively. "Are you quite sure you mean to refuse him this time?"

"Of course I am!" she burst out indignantly. "You don't suppose I could care for a boy like him, do you?"

"The silence in the room could have been cut with a knife when John concluded his reading and laid the epistle back on the table.

John stood rigid, gazing with a fixed and haughty stare at some point on the wall above John's head, when he turned and confronted her with a little embarrassment as he would have shown in facing a new pupil.

"Well, what do you think of it?" he asked, coolly.

"It was a nice copy," he said, "but I think it was a bit too long."

"Ah, did you write it like that?" he asked, pulling a big, round, dark object over his sunset and watching the effect of his rapid measuring through the clouds of grayish vapor with an artist's delighted appreciation of color.

"Oh, well—the letter you wrote, then, she said. "Though I'm sure you didn't do it all; you only helped me."

"Oh, yes," he answered, indolently. "But Hinsdale—he's broken out again!"

"Yes, worse than ever," and she sighed dramatically, "and I want you to help me write him another letter—one that will fix it so he'll understand there's no hope—no possibility—I mean—of my ever being anything more to him—here she flourished and broke quite down."

"Can't do it to-day," he said, dolefully. "I've got to get this picture done to-morrow—order, you know—and it'll be a scratch if I manage to do it. It means painting all night as it is."

"Oh, John, you must!" she cried, eagerly. "I've just got to send it to him this afternoon by a messenger boy or he'll be sure to come up to-night and make a scene or something, besides."

"No, it's no good," he said, cruelly, taking up his brush. "You'll have to get rid of him somehow and come to-morrow."

"But, oh, John!" she burst out, tears coming to her eyes. "I—I can't come to-morrow—Annt Maria has issued her commands—the flat has gone forth—I'm forbidden to come here any more."

"The deuce you are!" And he laid down his brush and faced quite around in his astonishment.

"Yes," she replied, furtively drying a tear on one of the ends of the muslin sash. (Jean never could find her handkerchief, being always with out pockets.) "She says it's all well enough for me to take painting lessons, you thought everybody knows I never could learn to paint. Annt Maria is so ignorant about such things, you know."

"Yes, I know." Blowing a ring of smoke ceilingward to hide a little smile.

"And she doesn't mind my having a studio, if I'll fix up at home, but she doesn't think it looks well for me to have one in this building and run in and out of here all the time—and so I've got to move to-morrow."

This time she forgot to dry the tear, and it ran forlornly down her cheek and fell with a splash on a study of the head of John the Baptist that lay on the floor.

For a moment there was silence, then John suddenly pushed back his easel and pulled a writing table toward him.

"Well, if you can't come to-morrow, I suppose I'll have to help you write your letter to-day," he said, but there was an unusual sound in his voice, and Jean looked up hastily through her tears.

John's face was grimly set, however, and told her nothing.

"Let me see—it was Hinsdale, I think you said"—he went on, still with that grating sound in his voice.

"Yes," she said, miserably, again having recourse to the crumpled sash. "And I think we told him, in our last, that we'd be a sister to him," he proceeded, nibbling the end of his pen.

"Something of that sort." And she flushed warmly, clear up to the curly waves of dark hair on her temples.

"Evidently the sister racket won't go down with Hinsdale," he said, reflectively. "You might offer to be his maiden aunt, you know."

"There! I knew you'd be horrid!" she exclaimed, indignantly.

"It's a delicate job," he went on, reflectively. "Are you quite sure you mean to refuse him this time?"

"Of course I am!" she burst out indignantly. "You don't suppose I could care for a boy like him, do you?"

"The silence in the room could have been cut with a knife when John concluded his reading and laid the epistle back on the table.

John stood rigid, gazing with a fixed and haughty stare at some point on the wall above John's head, when he turned and confronted her with a little embarrassment as he would have shown in facing a new pupil.

"Well, what do you think of it?" he asked, coolly.

"It was a nice copy," he said, "but I think it was a bit too long."

"Ah, did you write it like that?" he asked, pulling a big, round, dark object over his sunset and watching the effect of his rapid measuring through the clouds of grayish vapor with an artist's delighted appreciation of color.

"Oh, well—the letter you wrote, then, she said. "Though I'm sure you didn't do it all; you only helped me."

"Oh, yes," he answered, indolently. "But Hinsdale—he's broken out again!"

"Yes, worse than ever," and she sighed dramatically, "and I want you to help me write him another letter—one that will fix it so he'll understand there's no hope—no possibility—I mean—of my ever being anything more to him—here she flourished and broke quite down."

"Can't do it to-day," he said, dolefully. "I've got to get this picture done to-morrow—order, you know—and it'll be a scratch if I manage to do it. It means painting all night as it is."

How to Restore Your Gray Hair to Its Original Color

SOLD BY R. C. HARDWICK, HOPKINSVILLE, KY.

"LA GREALE" HAIR RESTORER

A Famous Hair Dressing and Restorer.
If your Merchant doesn't handle, send $1.00 to us and get one bottle, or $5.00 and get six bottles.
CHAS. ROBEY & CO., any part U. S. or Canada.
VAN VLEET-MANSFIELD DRUG CO., Sole Proprietors, MEMPHIS, TENN.

HALF HOUR WITH OUR BOYS AND GIRLS.

On the station platform two men stood waiting for their train. Another man, with a pick and shovel on his shoulder, was passing, on his way to work.

He was not more than 40 or 50 years old, but his gait was stiff and awkward, and there was a pronounced stoop in his figure. His overalls, once brown, were lime-blanched and faded to a soft "old rose," and bagged dejectedly at his knees. The face under the weather-beaten cap was stoic and listless.

As he clumped along in his heavy oiled boots, he apparently embodied what most prevalent and most pathetic figures which medieval Europe called the serf, and more modern Europe calls the peasant, and the census taker of free America to-day sets down as "unskilled labor."

As he crossed the track, the elder of the two men on the platform pointed him out to his companion.

"That man and I," he said, "were schoolmates. He was not dull at his books, and ought to have made a better condition for himself in life."

"What's the matter with him? Does he drink?" asked the younger man.

"No. Nothing of that kind has hindered him. When he was about 12 years old he was offered a dollar a day to dig on a cellar. This seemed large wages to him, and he left school and took the job. He was proud of his size and strength, and this offer made him feel so independent that he rather looked down on the rest of us boys. He never went back to school. He found work to do that required no skill or technical knowledge, only muscle used under an overseer's direction, and he kept at it."

"I remember Judge Haines, one of the school committee, said Tom's name as Tom Mahan—and said to him: 'My boy, you're making a mistake and doing a foolish thing. If you must work, why don't you learn a trade?'"

"I'd have to give my time for three or four years for nothing. What would be the use of that? I'm as strong as a man, and I'm getting man's wages now, said Tom."

"Strong?" said the judge. "Are you as strong as some of my horses? They work for their keep, but I have to pay the man that drives them $30 a month besides his keep; and the man who shoes them gets three dollars a day. If strength counts for so much, I wonder the horses don't strike and look for a job laying brick or carpentering."

"But Tom thought the judge was only joking with him. He couldn't see why he should give his time to learn a trade or some profitable business, and work for nothing, as he said, when he could work for wages, and so he went his own way."

"There are thousands like him," said the other man. "They never learn to do any special kind of business, and never seem to realize that the reason the trained blacksmith or the skilled carpenter or the salesman gets higher wages than they do, is because he has given time to learning to use his head, as well as his feet and hands."

"If boys would only keep the important fact in mind, that muscle—mere physical strength—is always one of the cheapest things in the labor market, and that so far as price is concerned it matters little whether a man furnishes a horse, or a horse, there would be fewer men to be classed as 'unskilled labor.'"

—Youth's Companion.

Small Tommy held the toothache one day and his mother, after examining it, said it was hollow, and must be pulled.

THE SHOE-LASTING MACHINE.

A Wonderful Invention Brought Out by a Young Negro.

The opposition to machinery upon the part of labor, which has been so bitter among the shoemakers of New England and especially of Lynn, has entirely ceased, the labor organizations which strove so hard to prevent its introduction having yielded to the inevitable, so that now amiable relations exist between the machinery makers and the labor unions. Nearly every factory in Lynn is introducing the hand-method lasting machines or "niggerheads" and dropping hand lasting or the tack-driving machines, which were merely aids to the hand-laster.

The "niggerhead" machine is the invention of a negro, Jan Ernest Matzeliger, who was born in Brazil. He was the son of a Holland engineer sent to Brazil to look after the interests of his country there, and a native woman whom his father married shortly after arriving in Brazil. When a boy he went to work in a machine shop, and as a young man came to Philadelphia, drifting from there to Lynn. He could hardly talk English when he came to this city, in 1878, but soon became a good English scholar. Labor organizations in Lynn were then at the height of their power, and conflicts with the manufacturers were frequent. Matzeliger knew nothing about lasting, and was working a McKay stitcher and running a heel-burnishing machine. Irritated by the frequent strikes of the lasters in his factory, continually laying the factory idle until their demands were satisfied, he expatriated with them and warned them that they could not always carry matters with such a high hand. They told him that no machine could ever be invented which could do their work, and while other branches of the business might suffer, they could do what they pleased. The next time there was a strike, they countered him, and he declared that he would put an end to their tyranny by making a machine which would last shoes.

In September, 1880, he completed the first wooden model of a machine which, when perfected, would make good his threat. Melville S. Nichols and C. H. Delano, two Lynn men, were taken into his confidence and became interested in the invention. As the inventor had no practical knowledge of lasting, there were many mistakes in the first machine, and it took two years to make a machine that would do satisfactory work. When the drawings for the patents were sent to Washington the experts declared themselves unable to understand them, and one of them had to come to Lynn to study the machine. It was almost impossible to obtain the capital necessary to develop it, but the young colored man and his backers persisted, making changes and improvements as defects were noticed. Finally, when the success was assured, six years after he had started on his invention, Matzeliger died, aged 36 years.

There is a school for teaching operators how to run this machine, in Lynn, and shoe men from all over the world take a course at running it. It is almost human in its work, and although greatly improved, still retains all the vital points of the young colored man's invention. — Boston Transcript.

TOM'S GREAT MISTAKE

He Fergal That the Man Who Succeeded Must Use His Head as Well as His Hands.

On the station platform two men stood waiting for their train. Another man, with a pick and shovel on his shoulder, was passing, on his way to work.

He was not more than 40 or 50 years old, but his gait was stiff and awkward, and there was a pronounced stoop in his figure. His overalls, once brown, were lime-blanched and faded to a soft "old rose," and bagged dejectedly at his knees. The face under the weather-beaten cap was stoic and listless.

As he clumped along in his heavy oiled boots, he apparently embodied what most prevalent and most pathetic figures which medieval Europe called the serf, and more modern Europe calls the peasant, and the census taker of free America to-day sets down as "unskilled labor."

As he crossed the track, the elder of the two men on the platform pointed him out to his companion.

"That man and I," he said, "were schoolmates. He was not dull at his books, and ought to have made a better condition for himself in life."

"What's the matter with him? Does he drink?" asked the younger man.

"No. Nothing of that kind has hindered him. When he was about 12 years old he was offered a dollar a day to dig on a cellar. This seemed large wages to him, and he left school and took the job. He was proud of his size and strength, and this offer made him feel so independent that he rather looked down on the rest of us boys. He never went back to school. He found work to do that required no skill or technical knowledge, only muscle used under an overseer's direction, and he kept at it."

"I remember Judge Haines, one of the school committee, said Tom's name as Tom Mahan—and said to him: 'My boy, you're making a mistake and doing a foolish thing. If you must work, why don't you learn a trade?'"

"I'd have to give my time for three or four years for nothing. What would be the use of that? I'm as strong as a man, and I'm getting man's wages now, said Tom."

"Strong?" said the judge. "Are you as strong as some of my horses? They work for their keep, but I have to pay the man that drives them $30 a month besides his keep; and the man who shoes them gets three dollars a day. If strength counts for so much, I wonder the horses don't strike and look for a job laying brick or carpentering."

"But Tom thought the judge was only joking with him. He couldn't see why he should give his time to learn a trade or some profitable business, and work for nothing, as he said, when he could work for wages, and so he went his own way."

"There are thousands like him," said the other man. "They never learn to do any special kind of business, and never seem to realize that the reason the trained blacksmith or the skilled carpenter or the salesman gets higher wages than they do, is because he has given time to learning to use his head, as well as his feet and hands."

"If boys would only keep the important fact in mind, that muscle—mere physical strength—is always one of the cheapest things in the labor market, and that so far as price is concerned it matters little whether a man furnishes a horse, or a horse, there would be fewer men to be classed as 'unskilled labor.'"

—Youth's Companion.

Small Tommy held the toothache one day and his mother, after examining it, said it was hollow, and must be pulled.

A TIMELY HINT.

You should be wise and see that your blood is pure and your whole system put in a perfectly healthy condition by the use of Dr. Carter's German Liver Powder. There you will be free from malaria, typhoid fever, colds and the grip. Dr. Carter's German Liver Powder is the best medicine money can buy.

For your Cold try Dr. O'Leary's Spruce Gum Balsam. Price 25c and 50c a Bottle.

For sale by Anderson & Fowler.

Mean men generally expect the most of the people they use the worst.

An aching back, a disordered digestion, changes in the urine, headache, nervous weakness, all point to Bright's Disease. The steps to cure the trouble before it becomes dangerous develop its dangerous stage. PRICKLY ACH BITTERS is a certain remedy. It cleans and strengthens the kidneys, regulates the liver, stimulates the stomach and digestion, cleanses the bowels.

It has been used in many severe and obstinate cases with the most gratifying success.

The wicked can look forward to a moribundity hereafter in view of the effects of sulphur.

A system regulator is a medicine that strengthens and stimulates the liver, kidneys stomach and bowels. PRICKLY ACH BITTERS is a superior system regulator. It drives out all unhealthy conditions, promotes activity of body and brain, restores good appetite, sound sleep and cheer full spirits.

Worry ruins more business men than bad debts do.

Two Millions a Year

When people buy, try, and buy again, it means they're satisfied. The people of the United States are now buying Cascares Candy Cathartic at the rate of two million boxes a year, and it will be three million before New Year's. It means merit proved, that Cascares is the most delightful bowel regulator for everybody the year round. All druggists 10c, 25c, 50c a box, cure guaranteed.

A humorist is a man who can help his fellowmen under any circumstances.

To Cure a Cough,

stop coughing, as it irritates the lungs, and doesn't give them any chance to rest. FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR cure without causing a strain in throwing off the phlegm like common cough expectorants. Anderson & Fowler.

When young people go horseback riding Cupid usually comes on a bridal party.

J. A. Lambert of Rachel, N. C., writes: "I heartily endorse FOLEY'S Kidney Cure. It does what you claim it will do, and I thank you for the good it has done me." Anderson & Fowler.

It is hard to keep people who jump at conclusions within bounds.

Dr. O'Leary's Spruce Gum Balsam.

A pleasant cough remedy, Dr. O'Leary's Spruce Gum Balsam. The formula is on the package. It is a pleasant cough remedy, and cures. Children get it in large size bottles, 25c and 50c.

For a Beautiful Complexion Use Dr. Carter's German Liver Powder. For sale by Anderson & Fowler.

Men who claim to be paramount are usually considerable below a hundred cents on the dollar in the opinion of others.

Save doctors' bills by giving FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR to infants and children in time to prevent pneumonia or croup, which are fatal to so many thousands of BABIES. Anderson & Fowler.

The white women are the only persons who have ever borne the white man's burden with commendable patience and intelligence.

PRICKLY ACH BITTERS cures the kidneys, regulates the liver and purifies the bowels. A valuable system tonic.

There are too many marriageable girls who are too proud at painting in water colors than daring socks.

YOU should know that FOLEY'S Honey and Tar is absolutely the best remedy for all diseases of the throat, chest and lungs. Dealers are authorized to guarantee it to give satisfaction. Accept no substitutes. Anderson & Fowler.

Most of our ancestors were foreign to the "at home" idea.

There Are Others.

There are other child tonics than "Dr. Mendenhall's Chill and Fever Cure," but if you purchase a bottle of this remedy, you are not deceived, for it is the best child tonic you have ever used your money will be refunded by R. C. Hardwick, druggist. Price 50 cents.

WISE MEXICAN WASP.

How It Manages to Provide a Fine Meal of Fresh Meat for Its Young.

Here is a picture of a Mexican wasp and its nest, or rather the nest in which it lays its eggs. The natural specimens from which the artist made the pictures were sent to John Dean, the well-known Brooklyn naturalist, and when asked to tell about the habits of this wasp he said:

"The wasp is not a vegetarian like the bee, and our cement maker has before her the problem of supporting her young with meat, rather than with bread. As her eggs are laid out in hot weather, and as enough food must be stored in the cell with the egg to mature the young insect, the question is how to preserve the meat fresh for so long a time. She meets the difficulty thus: After a tube is finished, except at one end, which is left open, she flies off on a hunt for spiders. She finds a fat, healthy one, poisons upon it, it stings it and carries it off and places it in a mud cell. She repeats this process over and over again."

In September, 1880, he completed the first wooden model of a machine which, when perfected, would make good his threat. Melville S. Nichols and C. H. Delano, two Lynn men, were taken into his confidence and became interested in the invention. As the inventor had no practical knowledge of lasting, there were many mistakes in the first machine, and it took two years to make a machine that would do satisfactory work. When the drawings for the patents were sent to Washington the experts declared themselves unable to understand them, and one of them had to come to Lynn to study the machine. It was almost impossible to obtain the capital necessary to develop it, but the young colored man and his backers persisted, making changes and improvements as defects were noticed. Finally, when the success was assured, six years after he had started on his invention, Matzeliger died, aged 36 years.

There is a school for teaching operators how to run this machine, in Lynn, and shoe men from all over the world take a course at running it. It is almost human in its work, and although greatly improved, still retains all the vital points of the young colored man's invention. — Boston Transcript.

MEXICAN WASP AND NEST.

It all has placed as many spiders in the tube as, according to her judgment, will be needed. She then lays an egg in the cell and walls up the opening.

The remarkable thing about this performance is the manner in which she stings. Whether it is the result of a subtle poison or whether it is a special spot in the spider's nervous system where the sting is inserted we do not know. Certain it is that after being thus stung the spider lives on in a paralyzed condition for weeks and even months. It can move only slightly, and remains helpless in its mud sepulcher until the wasp egg hatches into a voracious grub, which at once falls to and eats with great relish the meat thus miserably preserved.

"Another remarkable thing is that the wasp knows that the spider is a great glutton and can eat in one day 26 times its own weight in food, and when it wants to can go weeks and even months without eating at all. Now, how does the wasp know this?"

"Another equally remarkable thing is that the spider is not only paralyzed but rendered unconscious by the wasp's sting. The wasp does know it, for she invariably selects the spider to provide food for her young. She knows that when she stings the spider it is not killed, but will live without food long enough to be fresh meat for the young wasp when it is hatched and until it liberates itself from the cocoon. But what kind of an instinct or sense that tells all this to Me. Wasp we do not know."

"Whether the wasp sting renders the spider insensible to pain or not is a question not yet settled. However, the chances are in favor of the theory that it does. Anyway, we need waste no sympathy on the spider, the least blood-thirsty of all the little people of the woods. There is a sense of retributive justice in the thought of a spider helpless at the mercy of a small insect which it would have mercilessly devoured had it been able."

"So we need not accuse our alert, industrious cement maker of any unreasonable cruelty. For the little insect upon a meat diet for her young, we need have any fear of her sting, for she seldom uses it as a weapon of offense or defense." — Brooklyn Eagle.

A BOON TO MANKIND!

DR. TABLER'S BUCKEYE PILE CURE

DR. TABLER'S BUCKEYE PILE CURE FOR PILES, ITCHING, BLEEDING, BRUISES, SWELLINGS, AND ALL AFFECTIONS OF THE RECTUM. PRICE 75c.

A New Discovery for the Certain Cure of INTERNAL and EXTERNAL PILES, WITHOUT PAIN.

CURES WHERE ALL OTHERS HAVE FAILED.

TUBES, BY MAIL, 75 CENTS; BOTTLES, 50 CENTS.

JAMES F. BALLARD, Sole Proprietor, - - 310 North Main Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.

FOR SALE BY R. C. HARDWICK.

It's up to the People.

Less than a year remains in which to gather facts and information that will influence your vote for the next president of the United States.

That grievous wrongs have been committed, and grave errors allowed to exist without effort at correction, is evidenced by the speech, writings, and comments of eminent statesmen and jurists; congressmen and leading men of business; professors and clergymen in every state.

Party affiliations have been ignored in the outcry against thrusting aside the safeguards of our fathers and rushing pell-mell into the affairs of Europe. The situation is a deplorable one if not alarming; as is also our domestic affairs dominated by gigantic trusts.

The evils are not of spontaneous growth! They are the result of years of labor and expenditure of millions of dollars! Beginning with the displacement of American silver for English gold, the cunning of England's diplomacy in shaping the destiny of our Republic is apparent to any ordinary observer seeking the true inwardness of events.

The Cincinnati Enquirer has frequently called attention to each and every move as it was transpiring, and during the campaign of 1900 will present its readers with a truthful array of facts that will be extremely interesting and startling.

No fair-minded American, be he Republican, Democrat or of other political faith, can afford at this critical time to ignore the truth. Partisan prejudice, with the Trusts as dictators, is a far more degrading slavery than that which existed previous to the Civil War of '61-65.

Trusts in the United States alone have a representative capital greater than all the gold and silver in the world. These will spend many more millions of dollars to suppress truth and facts and mislead all who fail to look beyond their plausible deceptions. Read the Enquirer and you will be able to discern the truth and combat falsehood. A victory for Truth and the McKinley Administration in 1900 will end the era of greatest good to greatest number.

Watch carefully the Cincinnati Enquirer.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL RAILROAD

VALLEY ROUTE

I. C. RAILWAY.

—TIME TABLE—
Effective Nov. 12, 1899.

LEAVE HOPKINSVILLE.

| NO. 902 | NO. 801 | NO. 806 |
|-----------------------|------------|------------|
| Lv. Hopkinsville..... | 8:00 a.m. | 11:30 a.m. |
| Lv. Paducah..... | 9:00 a.m. | 12:30 p.m. |
| Lv. Louisville..... | 10:00 a.m. | 1:30 p.m. |
| Lv. Nashville..... | 11:00 a.m. | 2:30 p.m. |
| Lv. Knoxville..... | 12:00 p.m. | 3:30 p.m. |
| Lv. Chattanooga..... | 1:00 p.m. | 4:30 p.m. |
| Lv. Atlanta..... | 2:00 p.m. | 5:30 p.m. |

NO. 901 arrives at Hopkinsville 9:00 p.m.

NO. 801 arrives at Hopkinsville 9:00 p.m.

NO. 806 arrives at Hopkinsville 9:00 p.m.

W. M. RICHMOND, Agt., Hopkinsville, Ky.

E. A. RAILROAD, Agt., Louisville, Ky.

L. & N. TIME TABLE.

TRAINS SOUTH

| NO. 56 | Hopkinsville | Ac. 8:15 a.m. |
|---|---------------|---------------|
| NO. 57 <th>Fast Line</th> <th>9:00 a.m.</th> | Fast Line | 9:00 a.m. |
| NO. 51 <th>Fast Mail</th> <th>5:27 p.m.</th> | Fast Mail | 5:27 p.m. |
| NO. 91 <th>N. O. Limited</th> <th>12:08 a.m.</th> | N. O. Limited | 12:08 a.m. |

TRAINS NORTH

| NO. 92 | Chicago Limited | 9:30 p.m. |
|---|-----------------|---------------|
| NO. 52 <th>St. Louis</th> <th>Ex. 9:45 a.m.</th> | St. Louis | Ex. 9:45 a.m. |
| NO. 56 <th>Hopkinsville</th> <th>Ac. 8:30 p.m.</th> | Hopkinsville | Ac. 8:30 p.m. |
| NO. 48 <th>Fast Line</th> <th>10:24 p.m.</th> | Fast Line | 10:24 p.m. |

Nashville Accommodated does not run on Saturdays.

North bound St. Louis and Chicago Fast trains leave Hopkinsville on Saturdays and Sundays.

Chicago and St. Louis Fast trains leave only at important stations and crossings. For further Pullman sleeping car service apply to J. M. Adams Agent.

All The News

WORTH READING
Local, State and National,
WILL BE FOUND IN THE KENTUCKIAN
—AND THE—
Cincinnati Weekly Enquirer.

We have arranged a Clubbing Rate of which you can give

Both Papers One Year for $2.25.
Regular price for Both is $3.00.

We save you generous part of this sum.

Send or bring your cash with order to the
KENTUCKIAN,
Hopkinsville.

Hotel Henderson.

Entirely new and first class in all respects. Excellent sample rooms and service unequalled in any city.

On Double Car Line.

C. B. & L. P. KLEINBERGER, Props., Henderson, Ky.

BARRED PLYMOUTH ROCK COCKBONES FOR SALE.

Some nice ones at $1.50 each. Just the thing to improve your flock.

W. H. MACHAM, Hopkinsville, Ky.

4 BUGGY WHEELS $6.90

SEND MONEY TO THIS OFFICE, 107 and 109 N. 3rd St., St. Louis, Mo. We will send you a set of four wheels, with all the latest improvements, and a set of four tires, for $6.90. We will also send you a set of four wheels, with all the latest improvements, and a set of four tires, for $6.90. We will also send you a set of four wheels, with all the latest improvements, and a set of four tires, for $6.90.

Biliousness

You get up with a headache?
You have a bad taste in your mouth?
You have a heavy feeling in your stomach?
You are frequently
dyspeptic?
You are frequently
constipated?
What is the cause of this condition?

Ayer's PILLS

will give you prompt relief and cure. No. 1. 25c. All druggists.
Kings' Family Relief Pills.
If you have neglected your bowels
for a long time, they will be very sore.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla
will remove all impurities
from the blood and will give you a new complexion.
Price, 50c. in a bottle.
J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

The white women are the only persons who have ever borne the white man's burden with commendable patience and intelligence.

He Had Cause to rejoice.
"A young man came into our store yesterday suffering from a severe attack of cramp colic," writes B. F. Hies, miller and general merchant, Hies's Mountain, Pa. "He had tried the various home remedies without relief. As I had used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy I gave him a dose and it soon brought him out all right. I never saw a fellow so rejoiced." Sold by R. C. Hardwick, Druggist.

The pleasures attained without labor are of short duration.

Tetter, Salt-Rheum and Eczema.
The intense itching and smarting incident to these diseases, is instantly allayed by applying Chamberlain's Eye and Skin Ointment. Many very bad cases have been permanently cured by it. It is equally efficient for itching piles and a favorite remedy for nose nipples, chapped hands, chapped feet, blisters and chomps, nose chaps. 25c. per box. For sale by R. C. Hardwick.

The majority of the presidential booms are still-born.

R. C. Hardwick guarantees every bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and will refund the money to any one who is not satisfied after using two-thirds of the contents. This is the best remedy in the world for the whooping cough, cold, croup and whooping cough and is pleasant and safe to take. It prevents any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. Sold by R. C. Hardwick.

Honesty is the best policy—outside of politics.

In pulmonary trouble, the direction of COUSSEN'S HONEY OF TAR upon the throat, chest and lungs, immediately arrests the malady, by relieving the distress, cutting the phlegm and freeing the vocal and breathing organs. Price 25 and 50 cents. R. C. Hardwick.

There seems to have been a mis understanding about the old lady who kissed the cowpals.

The worst after effects of influenza arise from deranged functions of the liver. Clear the blood at once with BERBERE, for it will strengthen the liver to withdraw from circulation the bilious poisons. Price 50 cents. R. C. Hardwick.

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago, will find a valuable remedy in BALLARD'S KIDNEY AND BLADDER PILLS. Price 25 and 50 cents. R. C. Hardwick.

Be careful that you don't do right in the wrong way.

Coughs and colds cure unobscured, you can quickly get rid of them with a few doses of COUSSEN'S HONEY OF TAR. Price 25 and 50 cents. R. C. Hardwick.

When the office seeks the man it doesn't look far from him on the street corner.

Advocate Your Bowels With Chamberlain's Cathartic.

Men who claim to be paramour are usually considerable below a hundred cents on the dollar in the opinion of others.

Quis Young will move his stock of hardware, paints and oils into the implement store on Sixth street, next to Peter's shoe block.

For Rent. Two-story dwelling, and outbuildings, on corner Seventeenth and Main. Bright rooms, and well improved surroundings. Apply to J. E. McDermott.

It is hard to keep people who jump at the first opportunity to leave.

The Louing of Betty

By Clara Sherman

DORA did not like usually to go downtown shopping with her mother, but for a few days she had been in a curious imitation of the talk of older girls. Dora was 13 years old and had been downtown so many times that there was no longer any novelty in it. Little Betty was only five, and had hardly been at all. Nevertheless, when mother proposed the trip one fine October morning, both little girls were pleased. Betty on general principles and Dora because she liked to select her own ribbons, and also because she wanted to see the display window at the new store.

"The girls were talking about it at school," she said. "Harriet Graham said I just must go down. Each day they fit up the window differently. Yesterday it was a kitchen, and Harriet said there was a little girl in it who played cook. She swept the room, and she cooked things on the stove, and she served the kitchen table, and she washed the dishes in the dearest delft plan and dried them on pink-and-white glass towels. Day before yesterday, when Lillian was dressed in a party, and the little girl played she was a lady and wore long dress and did all sorts of things."

That was very exciting for Betty, and it was a contented party that they took the electric car, rode through the subway, and then went to the window. It was a kitchen, and Harriet said there was a little girl in it who played cook. She swept the room, and she cooked things on the stove, and she served the kitchen table, and she washed the dishes in the dearest delft plan and dried them on pink-and-white glass towels. Day before yesterday, when Lillian was dressed in a party, and the little girl played she was a lady and wore long dress and did all sorts of things."

Dora and Lillian stood motionless with amazement, and if Lillian at least felt that she would like to shake the unrepentant cause of all their suffering, perhaps she is hardly to be blamed. But Dora's mind the joy of beholding again her little sister, alive and uninjured, banished everything else. An attendant who was watching from the inside the door, beckoned the girls in, and they heard the whole story. Betty had walked in all alone, and going to a clerk, announced that she was her sister's "little sister." He was surprised to see so small a child alone, and asked her if she were lost.

"Yes, I must go back and look for her," she said. "I was a happy thought occurred to me."

For the girls hastened to Lawson's, finding the usual crowd before the window, but no sign of Betty. Then they went straight to a policeman and told the whole story, and then there was telegraphing to the central station. In the policeman were notified to be on the lookout for a little girl, five years old, yellow hair, blue dress and a black silk hat in her hand. It was hours before impulse to start for her mother. But Lillian and the policeman advised her to wait a little longer, and the policeman, sure that the little one could not have strayed far, began a systematic walk up one street and down the next, the girls following and looking into all the display windows.

"Somehow I cannot help thinking all the time of Lawson's," said Dora. "Let's go back there once more, and then if we do not see her I will go straight to mother, though I know I shall die if I have to tell her Betty is lost—poor, little frightened thing, as I know she is this minute!"

So to Lawson's they went again, and mingled with the crowd in front of the window, but no Betty was there. They were too disconsolate to look inside, and the crowd, which seemed bigger and more amused than ever, hustled them along. They had almost passed when suddenly there was a little stir and a sharp rap on the glass made them turn their bewildered eyes and there, with a doll in each arm, the rocking chair from which she had risen, sat away back and forth, with shining eyes brimming over with fun and excitement, her yellow hair tossed about, was Betty, not frightened, not troubled, but supremely, radiantly happy.

Dora and Lillian stood motionless with amazement, and if Lillian at least felt that she would like to shake the unrepentant cause of all their suffering, perhaps she is hardly to be blamed. But Dora's mind the joy of beholding again her little sister, alive and uninjured, banished everything else. An attendant who was watching from the inside the door, beckoned the girls in, and they heard the whole story. Betty had walked in all alone, and going to a clerk, announced that she was her sister's "little sister." He was surprised to see so small a child alone, and asked her if she were lost.

Dora and Lillian stood motionless with amazement, and if Lillian at least felt that she would like to shake the unrepentant cause of all their suffering, perhaps she is hardly to be blamed. But Dora's mind the joy of beholding again her little sister, alive and uninjured, banished everything else. An attendant who was watching from the inside the door, beckoned the girls in, and they heard the whole story. Betty had walked in all alone, and going to a clerk, announced that she was her sister's "little sister." He was surprised to see so small a child alone, and asked her if she were lost.

"I want to be an ADVENTURER."

her if she were lost. "Yes, I suppose I'm lost, but they'll find me pretty quick, and I want to be an adventurer while they are hunting."

"The clerk laughed and called to a gentleman who was just passing in the aisle of the store."

"Mr. Harris, here's an applicant for the position of window girl, and I think she'll make a good one."

When Betty had repeated her story and told her name, the gentleman had her take off her jacket and hat and lifted her carefully to the big window seat. "You'll find her quick to get on her feet, and she'll be a good one," he said. "Besides, it will please her, and her mother is one of our best customers."

Let's last advertisement, indeed, to have the daughter of Hon. Hamilton Warren as one of our employees. And he laughed as if he enjoyed the joke. The girls must have passed the first time before these preliminaries were settled.

"I hope you'll like it," said the child, who yielded her undesirable place to Betty. To Betty it was anything but undesirable, however. She felt that her time was short and simply set to playing with all the single-mindedness and apparently all the unconsciousness with which she would have played in her own room at home.

"Well, I knew she was never away from her," gasped poor Dora, divided between joy at the recovery and shame for Betty's shortcomings. But I never dreamed of her being in the place like that! How could you run away from us, Betty!" she said, reprovingly, as the child's cheeks and hat were being restored. "We were dreadfully frightened."

"Didn't run away," was the coaxing answer. "Didn't run away at all! I took hold of a lady's dress, and I thought it was you, and I was turning my head to look at the bellows. And when I looked round, it wasn't you, and the lady looked cross at me, and she was just next door. And I couldn't see you, and I had to come in."

IN THE TOILS.

The Notorious Louisville Corruptionist Run to Earth.

Senator Harrel Got $4,500 of Bribe Money and Has It Locked Up in Louisville.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 3.—John Whallen, accused by Senator S. R. Harrel of having attempted to bribe him by offering him $4,500 to vote against Goebel in the gubernatorial contest, arrived here yesterday and gave a bond of $10,000. He was accompanied to the sheriff's office by Gen. P. Wat Harbin and other anti-Goebel leaders. Whallen and his attorney, W. M. Smith, with James Speed and Hector V. Loring, of the Louisville Trust company, appeared before Judge Cantrell this morning and remained with him an hour. Mr. Loring and Speed admitted that John Whallen and Senator Harrel had rented box 559 in the city of Louisville, and that they made a deposit of it. They stated that Charles Ryan, of Russellville, was within it at the time.

Judge Cantrell ordered Mr. Speed to return to Louisville and get the box and return it to him tomorrow, when it will be turned over to the grand jury, which will investigate its contents, with a view to returning an indictment against Whallen for bribery.

He will make an effort to have the case transferred to Louisville, on the ground that the offense, if any, was committed in Louisville.

Found Nude in Car.

Paducah, Ky., Jan. 2.—Railroad men this morning found a nude negro in a coal car. He was almost frozen. The man had escaped from the Hopkinsville asylum and gave his name as Bill White. He will be returned to the asylum.

Leased the Flason Mill.

Mr. Joseph L. Pace, of Herndon, has leased the Mason mill property on Little River, a few miles above Pee Dee, and moved his family to that place yesterday. Mr. Pace will take immediate possession and his lease covers three years.

TAKE PROMPT ACTION.

Colored Preacher Returns From Union With a Case of Smallpox.

Rev. Lewis Brown, a colored Methodist preacher, who lives near Lovier's Spring, in the northern suburbs, is ill with a disease that physicians have diagnosed as smallpox. He has been holding meetings in Union county and returned home a few days ago and was taken sick yesterday morning. The authorities at once took charge of the case and established a quarantine around his premises. Every precaution will be taken to prevent a spread of the disease and no danger is feared. The locality is more than a mile from the business portion of the city.

MARRIED IN CLARKSVILLE.

Christian County Couples Have Knot Tied in Clarksville.

H. H. Buckley and Miss Johnnie Gamble, and R. A. Fuller and Miss Lillie A. Crabtree, young people living in the Northeastern part of this county, were married in Clarksville Wednesday. They returned to this city the same night.

John M. Melan's new paper, the Kentucky State Democrat, started up on the 1st inst. at Frankfort and is "the warmest baby in the bunch."

You ought to get it during the Legislature. It cost only $4 a year.

The impression in growing that whatever Mr. Taylor wants to do officially had better be done without much delay.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Waller have taken rooms with Mrs. W. S. Isaacs, on East Ninth street.

Miss Belle Moore is visiting relatives in Clarksville.

Asst. post-clerk never went dark before his trial to the band wagon. Roke is dangerous.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Klinger's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century. It has been discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Klinger, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the poorest and poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Klinger & Co., Birmingham, N. Y. The regular fifty cent bottle of Swamp-Root is sold by all good druggists.

SPECIAL LOCALS

A pure whisky agrees with any food, in fact, it digests it. It tones the stomach, increases the flow of the gastric juices and so promotes strength and health. A pure whisky is HARPER WHISKY.

SOLD BY W. R. LONO, Hopkinsville, Ky.

CONSUMPTION CAUSES

Death of Well Known Citizen of This City.

Mr. Luther Morris, a son of Mr. R. A. Morris, died at the home of the latter, on Elm street, Wednesday evening, after an illness of more than a year, of consumption.

He was 28 years of age and leaves a widow and one child.

He had been a member of the Presbyterian church for several years.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon and the interment followed in Hopewell.

Morrison's Preliminary Trial.

Springfield, Tenn., Jan. 3.—Will Morrison, who shot and killed W. D. Coffman at this place last Saturday, is to have a preliminary hearing this week, possibly Friday. His father came from Pembroke, Ky., and has employed A. E. Garner and Louis T. Cobbs as counsel. The father of young Coffman is expected here by Friday from Slaughterville, Ky.

She Was Not in Kimberley.

Morganfield, Ky., Jan. 3.—Mrs. N. H. Banks arrived in New York from South Africa a few days ago and will come at once to her home in this city.

Mrs. Banks was not in Kimberley near that place during the present war of the English and Boers. She was in Cape Town from the time of the day of declaring war to the time she left there.

Woman Killed By a Train.

Henderson, Ky., Jan. 3.—Sallie Quinn, aged thirty-six years, was run over and killed last evening at Baskett by the Texas local freight, No. 61. The fatal accident was at the station and was occasioned by the Quinn woman attempting to cross the track in front of the train.

Live Bear Sold at Auction.

Clarksville, Tenn., Jan. 2.—Yesterday in the Sixteenth district of this county a wild bear, fresh from Arkansas, was sold at auction by Constable Batson to satisfy an execution in favor of a physician's account. The animal brought $15. It was the first sale of its kind ever made in the section.

Somers Case Postponed.

The case of Charles E. Somers, of Elizabethtown, charged with attempted bribery, was called for trial in the Franklin Circuit Court Wednesday, but postponed until the April term. The motion to postpone the case was made by Commonwealth's Attorney Franklin by agreement of the attorneys.

Sharber-McClellan.

Hugh Sharber and Miss Mollie McClellan, young people near Johnson's postoffice, this county, were married yesterday afternoon.

City Market House.

Large Fat Mackerel, the finest Fish in Hopkinsville, 10c Each.

Potted Ham, Chickens, Soup, Canned Salmon, French Sardines

Salmon Steak, French Crackers, Watermelons, & Vegetables

FRESH EVERY DAY.

Try us with your orders. BIG STOCK. LOW PRICES.

E. B. CLARK & CO.

Wholesale and Retail GROCERS.

For Rent.

Storehouse in Lafayette, Ky., recently occupied by Ed R. Bogard. Centrally located, in good repair, and one of the best business points in Southern Kentucky. Possession given Jan. 1, 1900.

Apply to J. S. Jones, Committee, Bennettsown, Ky.

Mules.

We have for sale 20 head of fine mules, 4 to 5 years old, which can be seen at C. H. Layne's stable.

C. H. LAYNE & Co.

For Rent.

Three store houses in the Dryer & Young Block, opposite the Latham Hotel, for the year 1900. See John Young.

The man who pays as he goes sometimes goes broke.

TABLET'S BUCKEYE PILE OINTMENT

is the only remedy for blind, bleeding or protruding piles, induced by physicians; cures the most obstinate cases. Price 50 cents in bottles. Tubes, 75c. Price 25c. R. C. Hardwick.

Wedlock was never intended to be broken.

DR. CART'S CONDITION POWDERS are just what a horse needs when in bad condition. Tonic, blood purifier and vermifuge. They are not food but medicine and disinfectant. Use to put a horse in prime condition. Price 25 cents per package. For sale by R. C. Hardwick.

Many an ambitious man has been literally crowded to the front—in a street car.

Very few husbands are half as good as their wives imagine they are.

Many an innocent little darling is suffering untold agony and cannot explain its troubles. Mark your child's symptoms, you may find it troubled with worms; give it WHITE'S CREAM PUFF PASTE and restore to quietness and health. Price 25 cents. R. C. Hardwick.

A man's ideal figures usually has a dollar mark in front of it.

Honey is Blood Dose.

Clean blood means a clean skin. No beauty without it. Chamberlain's Sundry Cathartic cleans your blood and keeps it clean. Mark your child's symptoms, you may find it troubled with worms; give it WHITE'S CREAM PUFF PASTE and restore to quietness and health. Price 25 cents. R. C. Hardwick.

A Miss Penny recently married a Mr. Nickle. She got a Nickle for ascent.

Having a Great Run on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Manager Martin, of the Plover drug store, informs us that he is having a great run on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sells five bottles of that medicine to one of any other kind, and gives good results. In these days of grippe there is nothing like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to stop the cough, heal up the sore throat and lungs and give relief with a few minutes.

Children and adults are growing, and all who try it are pleased with its prompt action.—South Chicago, Daily Tribune. For sale by R. C. Hardwick Druggist.

One-half the world ought to be what the other half is not.

He Only Repents What Has Been Said About The Grippe.

It has been demonstrated repeatedly in every state in the Union and in many foreign countries that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a certain preventive and cure for grippe. It has been the universal remedy for that disease. M. V. Fisher of Liberty, Va., only repeats what has been said around the globe when he writes: "I have had Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for several years and always with perfect success. We believe that it is not only the best cough remedy, but that it is a sure cure for grippe. It has saved the lives of our children a number of times." This remedy is for sale by R. C. Hardwick Druggist.

HOPKINSVILLE

The Tennessee river is found very low in Tennessee.

There are only eight prisoners confined in the county jail at this time.

Jan. A. Ramsey, one of Madisonville's best citizens, died last Friday of spinal meningitis.

Mrs. Laura James, col., who lived near Kelly, died of pneumonia Tuesday. She was 26 years old.

Dr. E. N. Fruit, Deputy, office over City Bank, Hopkinsville, Ky.

Wild Goose Liniment cures rheumatism and neuralgia. 25c at all druggists.

For Sale—Scholarship in one of the best business colleges in the South. Apply at this office.

T. L. Porter, of Elkton, has been re-elected tobacco inspector at Clarksville, after 124 ballots. The other election is in a deadlock.

A few boarders can secure good accommodation by applying at first house east of L. & N. railroad, on Seventh street (north side).

Dr. J. A. Southall, residence South Virginia street, office over Hopper Bros' store. Telephone: Residence 269, office 903 B.

Pastor Chas. H. Nash will preach his annual sermon next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and will extend the hand of fellowship to those who have been recently baptized. A full attendance of members is earnestly desired. The Lord's supper will be celebrated.

Realty Transfers.

Sallie W. Logan to Thos. M. Barker, tract of land, 238 acres, near Kennedy, $4,140.

Wm. Gee to J. W. Litchfield, tract of land on Camp creek, $100.

Jas. A. Boyd and wife to John C. Barnes, tract of land on Little river, $60.

W. M. Bronaugh and wife to J. W. Crews, tract of land on Montgomery creek, $1,200.

J. M. Fowler to John Wilson, house and lot in Gracey, $50.

Mrs. Florence Young to J. Y. Goode, tract of land on Sand Lick, $60.

Mrs. Lucy J. Elginto to E. H. Cobb, tract of land on East fork of Little River, $1,837.

THREE GOOD MEN.

Senator Crenshaw on the Senate Contest Committee.

Frankfort, Jan. 4.—The Joint Committee was selected to day to try the gubernatorial contests.

In the Senate three Democrats, Frazer, Allen and Crenshaw, were drawn by lot. Senator Crenshaw is a Populist but was elected as a Democrat and was a strong Goebel man in the late election. The House will select 8 members, but this will not be done till late in the day.

The Trust Co.'s, box 559 was delivered to the grand jury to day.

No report has yet been given out.

BONDS CALLED IN.

The City Council's $6,000 More Railroad Debts.

At the regular meeting of the Council Friday night the Council called in $6,000 more of the O. V. Railroad bonds, making a total of $51,000 paid under the Democratic Administration just turned out of office.

This leaves $64,000 as the total indebtedness of the city.

WATCH FOR SPECIAL SALE next week at FRANKEL'S.

Scholarship Free.

You may, by doing little writing at your home, secure scholarship, free in either Draughton's Practical Business Colleges—Savannah, Nashville, St. Louis, Little Rock, Ft. Worth, Galveston, or Shreveport. Best patronized in the South. For particulars address, The Illustrated Youth and Age, Nashville, Tenn.

BUY YOUR DOMESTICS and LAWNS at FRANKEL'S.

Chicago Grain Market.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—(Special).—May wheat opened at 69½ closed at 69½. July wheat opened at 70½, closed at 70½. May corn opened at 33½, closed at 33½. Cash wheat.

Rain or Snow.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 4.—(Special).—Warmer, threatening weather to-night. Friday rain or snow.

FRANKEL'S Have just received new line of fine dimities and INDIA LAWNS.

Wholesale GROCERS.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

PERSONAL MENTION

Miss Annie Bryson is visiting friends at Danville.

Mr. J. M. H. Pender, was in the city this week on business.

Mrs. M. Barnes, of Louisville, is the guest of Mrs. L. Nash this week.

Mr. O. L. Hase and family have gone to Florida to spend some time.

Mr. Macon Bramham, of Owensboro, is here on a visit to his parents.

Mrs. Lizzie Clark and children have returned from a visit to relatives in Clarksville.

Dr. J. H. Wooley and wife, of Glasgow Junction, visited relatives near Bainbridge this week.

Dr. R. H. Perry, of Dawson, who spent Christmas week with his parents, returned home Tuesday.

Mrs. J. D. Ware, Miss Mary Ware and Mrs. Ada T. Graham have gone to Georgia to spend the remainder of the winter.

Miss Bessie Stewart, of Madisonville, who has been the pleasant guest of Miss Mabel Stewart for the past week, returned home Tuesday.

Messrs. F. A. and W. A. Wells who spent the holidays with Mr. W. S. Cheatham, have returned to their homes in Dinwiddie county, Va.

W. J. Cheatham, of Longview, after spending the holidays with his parents, returned Tuesday to Nashville to resume his studies in Vanderbilt Dental College.

Mr. J. D. Russell, manager of the Telephone exchange, went to Chicago Tuesday night in answer to a message stating that his mother was dangerously ill.

Charlie Hale, of Greenwood, Miss., who visited his former home here last week, is in Hopkinsville spending a few days with his brother, Walter.—Mayfield Mirror.

Mr. Mirvin Gomer, of Chicago, Ark., who has been spending the holidays with relatives and friends in the city left Tuesday for Evansville where he will attend business college.

NOW IN SESSION.

Board of Equalization Canvassing The Assessor's Books.

The Board of Equalization has been in session all week and will not adjourn until Tuesday. After this session of ten days, and an adjournment of five days, the board will meet again to hear complaints, if any, from parties whose assessments have been raised. The board is composed of the following gentlemen, all of whom are present.

Messrs. W. F. Garrett, C. A. Brasher, Thos. M. Barker, Thos. L. Moss, J. T. Walker, W. R. Renshaw and Geo. N. Johnson.

County Court Order.

John P. Thomas was yesterday appointed administrator of the estate of the late Hiram A. Phelps with Mrs. Mary Thomas as surety.

Messrs. R. E. Cooper, W. M. Hancock and E. M. Flack were named as appraisers.

ACUTE MANIA

Causes the Death of An Asylum Patient.

Mrs. Lizzie Zeiss, who was received at the asylum from Paducah about a month ago, died at the institution Wednesday night of acute mania. The remains were shipped to Paducah yesterday afternoon and will be interred to day.

Chicago Grain Market.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—(Special).—May wheat opened at 69½ closed at 69½. July wheat opened at 70½, closed at 70½. May corn opened at 33½, closed at 33½. Cash wheat.

Rain or Snow.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 4.—(Special).—Warmer, threatening weather to-night. Friday rain or snow.

FRANKEL'S Have just received new line of fine dimities and INDIA LAWNS.

Wholesale GROCERS.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

W. T. COOPER & CO.

TOBACCO MARKET

Imported by E. S. Hensley, of Hopkinsville, Ky., Jan. 3, 1900.

The Hopkinsville Tobacco Exchange held their annual meeting to-day, which was the time for electing officers for the ensuing year.

The following members were elected:

Nat. Gaither, President.

J. H. Eggleton, Vice President.

John Chappell, Second Vice President.

W. H. Faxon, Secretary and Treasurer.

COMMITTEE.

Committee on reclamation: E. M. Flack and J. H. Eggleton, represent the buyers.

R. E. Cooper and M. H. Tandy, represent the warehousemen.

All other committees were elected as heretofore.

The market opened up to-day with the first sale of the year on the new crop, grown in 1899. Demand was good for everything on sale.

There was a full attendance of buyers and bidding was rather quiet, prices ruled firm. There was no good tobacco on sale as sellers wanted to see the strength of the market on common and medium grades. The outlook is fairly good, for this market to do the usual amount of business this year.

QUOTATIONS.

Common lugs,..... 3 00@ 3 50

Medium lugs,..... 3 50@ 4 00

Good lugs,..... 4 00@ 5 00

Low Leaf,..... 5 00@ 5 50

Medium leaf,..... 5 50@ 7 00

Good, none on sale.

FRANKEL'S

Are you ready to do your white sewing.

FRANKEL'S have received a full line of India Linens, Dinities and Nansooks.

FRANKEL'S

Are you ready to do your white sewing.

FRANKEL'S have received a full line of India Linens, Dinities and Nansooks.

FRANKEL'S

Are you ready to do your white sewing.

FRANKEL'S have received a full line of India Linens, Dinities and Nansooks.

FRANKEL'S

Are you ready to do your white sewing.

FRANKEL'S have received a full line of India Linens, Dinities and Nansooks.

FRANKEL'S

Are you ready to do your white sewing.

FRANKEL'S have received a full line of India Linens, Dinities and Nansooks.

FRANKEL'S

Are you ready to do your white sewing.

FRANKEL'S have received a full line of India Linens, Dinities and Nansooks.

FRANKEL'S

Are you ready to do your white sewing.

FRANKEL'S have received a full line of India Linens, Dinities and Nansooks.

FRANKEL'S

Are you ready to do your white sewing.

FRANKEL'S have received a full line of India Linens, Dinities and Nansooks.

FRANKEL'S

Are you ready to do your white sewing.

-CHRISTMAS- -AT- FORBES & BRO'S

We have no toys, no firecrackers to offer you, but below we have listed a few articles that will both please the recipient and reflect credit on the giver.

THEY ARE MARKED LOW
AND WE GUARANTEE
THEY WILL PLEASE.

Carving Sets,
Rodgers' Silver Knives and Forks,
Handsome Fire Sets,
Fine Lap Robes,
Rodgers & Wostenholm Pocket Knives
Nickle Coffee and Tea Pots,
Banquet and Swinging Lamps,
Colts and Smith & Weston Pistols,
Black Powder
and White Powder Shells,
Whips, Saddles,
all kinds of Table Cutlery.

FORBES & BRO.

Notice To Farmers.

10,000 lbs live poultry wanted.
On Tuesday, Jan. 9, 1900, we will pay for nice fat poultry the following prices:

Turkeys, hens FAT per pound..... 6½c

Turkey Toms young and old FAT per pound..... 5c

Fowls fat..... 5c

Cocks per pound..... 10c

Poultry MUST BE FAT and FREE OF FEED. NO POOR and SCALAWAY stock wanted AT ANY PRICE. Bring all your eggs, hides, poultry, furs etc., in on above date and receive highest market price. If you have any furs it will pay you to bring them in now as market on furs is pretty high and indications are that it will take a big drop in next two weeks.

Ohio Valley Pro. Co., Wiley & Parker's old stand, Hopkinsville, Ky., near L. & N. Depot. Ninth street O. H. JEAN.

FRANKEL'S

Are clearing up winter Stock.

Look out for advertisement.

FRANKEL'S

Are clearing up winter Stock.

Look out for advertisement.

FRANKEL'S

Are clearing up winter Stock.

Look out for advertisement.

FRANKEL'S

Holiday Goods

Endless Varieties...

Every style and price in Salad Bowls, Cake Plates, Comb and Brush Trays and everything in FANCY CHINA. Our line of

VASES

Is the handsomest in the town. Large line to select from. Goods packed for shipment FREE.

THOMPSON & BATSETT.

Monuments.

It is couse to believe that you can buy of some agent cheap as you can of your home shop, where you get the marble and granite at the lowest possible price. If you call and see our work and get our prices you will find yourself well paid for the trouble. Yours truly

ROBT. H. BROWN,

7th and Virginia Streets, Hopkinsville, Ky.